DR. CRIPPEN IS GUILTY AND SENTENCED TO HANG

"You have been found guilty of killing Belle Elmore Crippen, and the sentence of the court is that you be taken from this place and hanged by your neck until you are dead, and may God have mercy on your soul."

London, Oct. 22.—Dr. Hawley Harvey Crippen was found guilty today of murdering his wife, Belle Elmore Crippen. The jury, after being given the case, was out just twenty-nine minutes, having retired at 2:17. Lord Alverstone, donning the black cap, passed sentence of death upon Crippen. This was the only sentence possible under the verdict of the jury. Conviction followed an impassioned appeal by the king's counsel, Richard Muir. The instructions by the chief justice were regarded as unusually favorable to the prosecution. Crippen accepted the verdict fairly composed. Those present in the court room at the time were warned against any kind of demonstration before the verdict was read. The verdict was read in oppressive silence. There is a slight chance that the death sentence may be commuted to life imprisonment, owing to the circumstantial nature of much of the evidence.
After pronouncing the sentence that sealed the fate of Crippen, the chief justice continued: "The prisoner has been convicted on evidence that leaves no doubt in any reasonable mind that he cruelly poisoned his wife and then mutilated her body." Turning to Crippen, he added: "I advise you to entertain no hope of escaping the gallows. I implore you to make your peace with God."
Miss Ethel Clare Leneve, indicted as an accessory, will be placed on trial next Tuesday. Had Crippen been freed she would have been freed without going to trial.

She Had Good Nerve.
Young Married White Woman Held Peddler at Point of Pistol Until Officer Came.
Early this afternoon a young married white woman, after a scuffle with a white man peddler, in which she was considerably bruised up, secured a pistol and held the man until City Policeman Huffman came to the rescue and marched the man to jail. This occurred on South street. The prisoner was turned over to the county officers, and is now in jail.
The woman showed supreme nerve, says the officer, and had the man backed up into a corner of the fence with the gun shoved in his face, with the command to stand still or she would kill him. And the officer says she looked as if she would carry her threat into execution. The woman, who is apparently about 22 or 23 years old, and attractive, says the man addressed insulting remarks to her, when she started for the gun. He dived her purpose, and scuffled with her over the possession of the weapon. Once, she says, he wrested it from her grasp, and she took it away from him.
When the officer arrived on the scene the woman was found to be badly lacerated and bruised about the hands and arms, while the man had scratches on his hands and face. She says the man came to the house offering to sell shears, when he became insulting in his language, and made indecent proposals to her.
The prisoner is apparently about 40 years of age.
Neighbors coming to the rescue phoned for an officer, and Huffman responded to the call.
After the officer secured the man the woman collapsed, and had to have the attention of a doctor.

50 LIVES LOST AT SEA

THE BRITISH STEAMER WALLER WRECKED LATE LAST NIGHT OFF PARA, AND FIFTY OF HER CREW WERE LOST.

(Herald Special.)

Great Germicide.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 21.—Professor H. C. Carel of the University of Minnesota, for many years head of the department of medical chemistry and toxicology and chemist to the Minnesota state board of health, has discovered a chemical that will revolutionize the warfare upon germ life, the arch enemy of the human system, and bring success in cases where the physician heretofore has been baffled. Prof. Carel has had exhaustive tests made by leading bacteriologists, and their reports have more than borne out his assertions. The new chemical, which he calls benetol, is eight times as strong as carbolic acid, and yet is not a poison. Never before have physicians been able to give doses of any disinfectant in sufficient strength to kill germs.
Prof. Carel, in speaking of the new chemical, said: "I am so confident in benetol that I am willing to submit myself to cholera infection, to prove that it can be successfully treated with my discovery."
